The traditional English breakfast consists of eggs, a few rashers of bacon, sausages, fried bread, baked beans and mushrooms. Even though not many people will eat this for breakfast today, it is always served in hotels and guest houses around Britain.

EXERCISE 4
Watch the film again with the sound muted and number the steps of the recipe in the right order.

STEP ....:
Wash and slice the mushrooms. Add them to some preheated vegetable oil in a separate frying pan. Then toss them and hold on a gentle heat for about 5 minutes. After that, consign them into a warm plate until the rest of the fry-up is finished.

STEP ....:
While you keep an eye all that is sizzling and bubbling, replenish the other frying pan with oil and put it on a medium heat in readiness for the eggs. Keep turning the bacon and stirring the beans, then crack one egg and two into the empty frying pan. Transfer it to the hottest plate on a stove if necessary. Keep stirring the beans and we are nearly done. The final touch is to get your spatula and splash hot oil over the eggs until the yolks go opaque. This is a sure sign that they look properly and

STEP ....:
Add it all to the plate with the mushrooms on and get ready for the Full English experience. Try a little tomato ketchup or brown sauce for the finishing touch to the perfect fried breakfast.

STEP ....:
For each serving you will need: 2 pork sausages, 2 rashers back bacon, 2 eggs, 100 g (3.5 oz) mushrooms, 150 g (5.3 oz) baked beans, vegetable oil and some ketchup or brown sauce. You will also need these utensils: a knife, a chopping board, a stirring spoon, a spatula, a small saucepan and 2 frying pans.

STEP ....:
When the sausages have been frying for 8 minutes add the rashers to the same pan and turn them every minute or two. As soon as your bacon is on the way, baked beans go on the stove. They require a gentle heat and plenty of stirring.
